

How to Share your Emerald Article

Emerald is committed to increasing the impact and visibility of your work. This guide will help you share and reuse your work responsibly.

I want to share my work...	I have the...
	Submitted Version under Review	Author Accepted Manuscript	Version of Record (Publisher PDF)	Version of Record Gold Open Access
 For teaching in the classroom	Unlimited print copies Electronic use permitted within faculty only			Can share at any time in accordance with Creative Commons licence CC BY 4.0 .
 In my thesis or dissertation	✓	✓	VoR can be included in print version AAM must be used in electronic version.
 In my institutional repository	✓	Upon official publication	No. You may include the metadata of your work, and provide the digital object identifier (DOI) to the version of record.
 At a conference	✓	✓	Up to 25 copies If you require more, please contact permissions@emerald.com
 Personal or company website; not for profit subject repository	✓	Upon official publication	No. You may include the metadata of your work, and provide the digital object identifier (DOI) to the version of record.
 Scholarly collaboration network	Anytime, but only if the site is a signatory of the STM article sharing principles .	Upon official publication. Only if the site is a signatory of the STM article sharing principles .	No. You may include the metadata of your work, and provide the DOI to the version of record, or the link to a version deposited into your institutional repository.
 Reuse extracts of my work in other works authored by me	✓	✓	✓
 Republish my work	Yes, you can include your work in any future publications, providing that you are the named author or editor of the new work.
 In an email to colleagues	Yes, to individuals for personal use only
 Via social media or in a blog	No. You may include the metadata of your work, and provide the DOI to the version of record, or the link to a version deposited into your institutional repository.
 In a grant or funding application	✓

For any uses not covered above, contact Emerald permissions