REFERENCE SERVICES REVIEW

Covers all aspects of reference and library user services in a digital age, the journal is described by the ALA RUSA as 'one of the most respected in the field of reference librarianship'. 2020 special issue "Academic Libraries and the 45th President" analyses current political climate and the impact on academic library services.

JOURNAL OF DOCUMENTATION

Unique in its approach, concepts and models within library and information sciences overlap with those in cognate disciplines such as psychology and cognitive science, the physical sciences, communication and media studies, museum studies, computer science, sociology and publishing.

INFORMATION AND LEARNING SCIENCES

The oldest library journal first published in 1898 as 'New Library World', the journal explores scholarly intersections shared within two key fields: information science and the learning sciences/education sciences.

Our digital platform takes research to the world
